Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: page 1, line 25, a reference of the attraction to claim 1 is improper.

Appropriate correction is required.

Drawings

The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the “power take-off means” must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as “amended.” If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either “Replacement Sheet” or “New Sheet” pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-4, 6-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over GB 22781.

GB 22781 disclosed an amusement device comprising a number of gondolas (h) arranged a fixed distance to a frame construction (a), the gondolas traveling an endless track as shown in Fig. 1 inherently with a minimum height difference of about 30 meters, the frame (a) has a stationary track section (f), wherein the gondolas are provided with a roller construction (g) for continuous engagement with the track section and movement along the latter, wherein the gondolas are linked by a drive (h1), driven by a motor (i1) that extends along the track section and engages on at least one of the gondolas as shown in Fig. 3, the gondolas being always in a fixed position relative to the track section see Figs. 1 and 2; wherein each of the gondolas is provided with a supporting platform for the users and its is rotatable with respect to the gondola in such a way that the position thereof with respect to the surrounding remains the same (applicant's claim 1). The track section comprises to spaced rails as shown in Fig. 3 (applicant's claim 2). The track section is pyramid-shaped see Fig. 1 (applicant's claim 4). Fig. 2 shows the link between the gondolas comprises rods (applicant's claim 6). The roller construction comprises sets of sprocket wheels (g) (applicant's claim 7). Due to the lack to disclosure of the "power take-off means" as discussed above, it is inherent that most if not all amusement ride must include an assisting power take-off means in order to initially propel the gondolas.

It is noted that GB 22781 disclosed the drive as chains instead of a drive cable as set forth in claim 1. However, it is common in the art to use a drive cable interchangeably with a chain because both would perform the same function.

Regarding claim 3, the specific shape of the track section is merely a matter of design choice and it is apparent that the attraction of GB 22781 could easily be modified as a circular shape.

Allowable Subject Matter

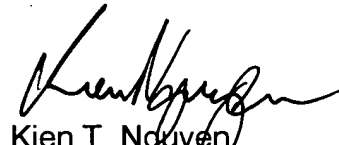

Claim 5 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
